

Humility: The Lost Virtue

A 45–60 Minute Keynote Experience by Byrd Baggett

"Humility is not the absence of strength; it is the strength to put others before yourself." — Byrd Baggett

In today's culture of self-promotion, status, and personal achievement, humility has become one of the rarest—and most powerful—leadership virtues.

In this engaging 45–60 minute keynote, Byrd Baggett challenges leaders, teams, and faith communities to rediscover humility as the foundation of authentic leadership, meaningful relationships, and lasting influence. Through compelling storytelling, humor, timeless wisdom, and practical application, audiences will discover why the greatest leaders are remembered not for what they accumulated, but for how they served.

What This Experience Delivers

- Humility — Why true strength begins with serving others.
- Integrity of Character — Why trust is the foundation of lasting leadership.
- Compassion — Why caring for people is the hallmark of authentic influence.
- Truth — Learn to seek it, speak it, expect it, respect it, and live it.
- Legacy — Build a life remembered for significance rather than success.

Why It Works

"There are very few speakers who can instantly connect with a room full of strangers—making them laugh, cry, reflect deeply, and strive for greater authenticity as leaders while discovering their purpose. Byrd Baggett is unquestionably one of those rare individuals."

— Jed Thomas, Senior Vice President, Coca-Cola Consolidated

Ideal For

Corporate Leadership Retreats • Executive Offsites • Faith-Based Conferences & Church Events • Team Development Programs • Men's & Women's Leadership Events • Colleges, Universities & Community Organizations

Humility is not weakness—it is strength under control. It enables leaders to listen before speaking, serve before being served, seek truth over ego, and build cultures marked by trust, respect, and compassion. The leaders who leave the greatest legacy are those who elevate others rather than themselves.
